

Forum Research Poll Suggests Torontonians Approve of the Way Mayor Ford Handled Occupy Protesters

Posted By: David Woodard dwoodard@astral.com · 11/24/2011

The majority of Toronto residents believe the mayor did a good job in the way he handled the Occupy Toronto situation.

61% of those polled say they approve of the job Mayor Rob Ford has done, approval being highest among older residents.

In the Form Research Poll, residents were also asked if the protesters accomplished anything during the protests.

46% of those polled say they thought the protesters accomplished something.

In a release, Forum Research President Lorne Bozinoff says "Torontonians are giving their mayor a thumbs-up on his handling of this sensitive issue."